

THE SCOTSMAN
CONFERENCES

CAN THE GREEN ECONOMY DELIVER FOR SCOTLAND?

How can we ensure a new generation of clean, green jobs?

In partnership with

Join us for a one day debate at Queen Margaret University on Monday 24th May 2010 and hear key policy makers and opinion formers outline how renewable technologies can drive the economy forward.

SUSAN RICE, Managing Director of Lloyds Banking Group Scotland, will look at the key issue of finance – how do we pay for the green economic boom?

JIM MATHER, Energy Minister, will explain how the government is trying to create the right conditions for the promised green jobs bonanza.

ADRIAN GILLESPIE, Scottish Enterprise's Director of Energy and Low Carbon Technologies, will look at the support on offer for emerging business – and how to get them to market.

RICHARD DIXON, Director of WWF Scotland, will urge Scotland not to miss the chance to capitalise on its two greatest assets – its innovative people and fabulous natural resources.

Companies at the forefront of green technology, PEIAMIS and REPOWER, will talk about their experiences and seminar sessions will focus on INNOVATION, SKILLS and PLANNING - creating an environment where environmentally-sound business can flourish.

Scottish Sustainable Development
Forum

The Scottish
Green
List

The event will also include the launch of Scotland's Green List, a roll call of the people in business, community projects, health and politics who are creating solutions to our environmental, social and economic problems making Scotland fairer and greener.

Book now at www.scotsmanconferences.com or call 0131 620 8359

Commercial delegate rate £199 + VAT, charities from £99 + VAT.

Includes lunch, refreshments and access to conference reports.

Exhibition and sponsorship packages available. Please call to discuss.